DC Commission on the Arts and Humanities (DCCAH) grant program managers are responsible for ensuring applicants and applications are compliant with eligibility guidelines as listed in the FY15 and FY16 Guide to Grants and guidelines for each program during the first week after an application deadline has passed. Grant program managers are then responsible for convening panels of artists, arts and humanities administrators, community members and individuals with relevant skills sets for each grant program. The panelists then in turn review applications providing ranking scores and comments. During the panel process, grant program managers take minutes at each panel to ensure

6. Please provide a detailed timeline of entire grant process – beginning with application process opening, deadline to apply, complete internal process – of review, approval, and announcement, and final payment is made. Please explain and justify any and all Board meetings, what budgets are approved, what role staff has, plays, and performs; and why grant award announcements were not made at the start of the Fiscal Year.

panelists' responses to applications are recorded and in keeping with the established grant guidelines. These comments are later made available to applicants.

Panelists' rankings of applications are presented to Grants Committee of Commissioners to generate funding recommendations based on the available funds allocated for each grant program and the applicant ranking. The Full Commission reviews and approves the recommendations of Grant Allocations Committee. The awards are announced subsequently.

Applicants are given three weeks to upload signed grant agreements to the DCCAH application portal. After the Executive Director co-signs the signed agreement, grant program managers review the agreement to ensure all materials are signed and consistent with budgetary figures made in their application four months prior. An invoice for first payment is requested from the applicant and submitted to Office of the Chief Financial Officer (OCFO) via the grant manager for processing within 72 hours of receipt of the grant agreement. The OCFO's office then processes the invoice for first payment. Processing time is estimated from 4-6 weeks from the date submitted to the OCFO. An award payment is then sent by the OCFO via US mail to the awardee.

The expected timeframe from award announcement to funds disbursement is 10-12 weeks. This process can be shortened by two weeks if and when the applicant has provided direct deposit information. Applicants are strongly encouraged to provide direct deposit information. This timeframe can be stymied by any of the following:

- Grantees failing to upload signed grant agreement package in a timely fashion.
- Grantees failing to submit a correct and complete invoice within seven days of request.
- An influx of signed grant agreement packages being submitted to grant program managers.
- A change of address that the grantee fails to alert DCCAH to.
- A back log in the OCFO approval flow.

Sub-Division Roles and Responsibilities

Grants administers the grant making process for the agency. This includes development and dissemination of the grant guidelines, overseeing the peer review grant panel process and processing grant agreement packages for payment. The Grants department is also responsible for monitoring and tracking grantee progress to ensure that grant funds are spent in the manner that they were originally proposed to be spent by the grantee; and making periodic site visits to grantees.

Public Art was established by 1986 legislation that allocates up to 1% of the District's adjusted Capital Budget for the commission and acquisition of artwork. There are many components to the Public Art department. DC Creates! Public Art program purchases, commissions and installs artwork throughout the District of Columbia. The purpose of the DC Creates! Public Art program is to provide high quality art installations and administrative support services to the public so they can benefit from an enhanced visual environment. The agency maintains the following in its portfolio: Art Bank Collection, Murals DC (in partnership with the Department of Public Works), Wilson Building Art Collection, Commissioned Projects, Art in Metro, Public Art Master Plan, Maps and Apps, and Tours. These programs give opportunities for individuals or organizations to encounter art in parks, communities, government offices, libraries, and other public venues. The collection includes more than 192 permanently sited and integrated works and 2,700 fine art works in District offices.

Arts Education spearheads arts learning and outreach programs for young people, pre-kindergarten through 12th grade. The advancement of arts education programming for the city's children and youth is one of the DCCA's top priorities. The agency provides Arts Education Program grants, educational activities, and outreach services for youth, teaching artists, classroom educators, and arts administrators that encourage diverse artistic expression and learning opportunities that enable all District of Columbia residents and visitors to experience the rich culture of the District of Columbia. The education activities include Poetry Out Loud and the Creative Spark!

Legislative & Community Affairs creates and implement programs designed to promote the agency's objectives particularly among the Executive Office of the Mayor, members of City Council and their staff. This division provides outreach and community engagement efforts to legislative bodies to increase awareness of the community impact of the activities of Commission grantees throughout the District. In addition, this division conducts policy research and analysis on current and emerging legislative and regulatory issues or proposals governing and affecting the arts and humanities. Interpretative policy reports are prepared for District government officials including the Executive Office of the Mayor, Office of the Chief Financial Officer, DC City Council and other government agencies as it pertains to the arts and humanities. Advises on strategies and protocol for advancing the mission of the agency. Responsible to internal governance issues, inclusive of working closely with the Commission Board.

7. Please provide the Committee with an organizational chart and current Schedule A. Please also include a complete, up-to-date organizational chart for each division within the agency (if applicable) and an explanation of the roles and responsibilities for each division and subdivision.

Operations ensure the day-to-day administration of agency affairs. Included in this division is the Finance Office which is responsible for processing payments for all grantees, contract procurement, maintaining the agency budget and managing other billing requirements. The Office Manager/HR Advisor oversees daily administrative operations to comply with agency standards. This involves time keeping and approval, completing monthly reports, supply orders and risk management – which consists of ensuring the agency is in compliance with the building safety standards and maintains an up-to-date evacuation plan.

Community Engagement & Events works to promote DC Commission on the Arts and Humanities (DCCAH) grantees and local artists. This is done in a variety of ways. Artists are given a platform to showcase their work through DCCAH-sponsored special events that are free and open to the public. These special events reflect the diverse artistic expression of the District of Columbia and serve to enhance the quality of life for resident and visitors. DCCAH works to ensure that arts and culture are an integral part of city life. The agency provides annual programming such as the Mayor’s Arts Awards, Larry Neal Writers’ Awards, Poetry Out Loud, Hip-Hop Theater Festival and Dance DC.

Marketing & Communications works to promote the DC Commission on the Arts and Humanities (DCCAH), DCCAH grantees and local artists. This is achieved through the management of Agency website, blog, social media outlets and graphic design. In addition this division also places print, radio and television advertisement; secures interviews with media, and ensures the development of collateral print materials.

Office of the Poet Laureate focuses on three vital benchmarks for its poetry program: creativity, choice and collaboration with other art forms. This vision was conceived and designed by Dolores Kendrick, Poet Laureate of Washington DC, to formulate and preserve standard poetry as an art form. There are several programs in the portfolio of the Office of the Poet Laureate, such as the Poet-in-Progress (PIP) Program, which is the first of its kind in Washington, DC. PIP serves to support the creative talents and careers of local poets, Young Champion Poets for senior high school student, and Poetry in a Garden. All the programs are designed to support emerging poets.

The DC Commission on the Arts and Humanities (DCCAH) has a spending plan in place. Local funds are now being used to support Public Art projects. Due to the nature of the Public Art process, it is often not possible to complete planned projects within a single fiscal year as such installations often span across multiple fiscal years. As a result, there is the strong likelihood that after mid-year budget analysis there will be funds available. At that point, the Agency will begin implementation of an alternate spending plan.
