1 FIRE AND EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES DEPARTMENT

Mission: The mission of the Fire and Emergency Medical Services Department (FEMS) is to preserve life and promote health and safety through excellent pre-hospital treatment and transportation, fire prevention, fire suppression, rescue activities, and homeland security awareness.

Services: FEMS provides emergency medical services (EMS), fire suppression, homeland security and special operations response for the District of Columbia, including planned events and activities unique to the nation's capital. The Department is responsible for fire and life safety code enforcement, along with community based education and prevention programs. FEMS is the lead first-response agency for managing consequences resulting from natural disasters or other catastrophic events impacting the national capital region.

2 2024 ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Accomplishment	Impact on Agency	Impact on Residents
Whole blood: The Department successfully launched the Low Titer O+ Whole Blood program in April, delivering pre-hospital administration of whole blood to patients suffering from hemorrhagic shock (massive blood loss). As of December 1, the Department has provided blood to 166 patients (178 units of blood, 105 Shootings (63%)). Overall Survival of 73.5%; survival of patients excluding cardiac arrest: 93.4%.	Improved pre-hospital care capabilities and strengthened the Department's trauma response system, setting a benchmark for innovative medical interventions.	Increased survival rates for patients suffering from severe blood loss, with a 93.4% survival rate excluding cardiac arrests, providing better health outcomes in emergencies.
Strength in hiring: The Department hired 180 firefighters in FY23 and 106 in FY24, significantly enhancing diversity within the Department while nearly eliminating all firefighter vacancies. At the beginning of FY25, the Department has 26 just uniformed multi-role provider vacancies, showcasing our recruitment strength, and reducing overtime and burnout. Department's vacancy rate is currently 2.4%, down from 8.3% two years ago.	Significantly reduced vacancy rates to 2.4%, enhanced workforce diversity, and alleviated staff burnout, ensuring stronger operational readiness.	Residents benefit from reduced emergency response times and improved service delivery due to a well-staffed and diverse emergency workforce.
The Department expanded its pathways to the middle class through innovative programming that engages youth as early as middle school and continues into adulthood. Highlights include the ACTION summer youth employment program for teens, expanded Cadet Program for high school graduates, mentorship-driven Camp Spark for young women, and strengthened paramedic training partnerships with local institutions.	Strengthened recruitment pipelines, fostering long-term staffing solutions, and promoting community engagement through innovative youth programs.	Created opportunities for local youth to explore careers in Fire and EMS, providing clear paths to stable employment and professional growth within the community.

5 2024 STRATEGIC INITIATIVES

In FY 2024, Fire and Emergency Medical Services Department had 10 Strategic Initiatives and completed 50%.

Title	Description	Update
Joint Training Initiative with OUC	In FY 2024, the Department will engage in a joint training initiative with the DC Office of Unified Communications (OUC) to conduct training classes for their members to increase operational awareness. Training lesson plans and objectives will be established and classes will be delivered at OUC during established scheduled dates. Feedback will be solicited from participants to assess efficacy and progress.	Completed to date: 0-24% Due to competing priorities, the Department was unable to begin the training effort partnership with OUC. Competing priorities.
Utilize AHA Stroke Registry to Track EMS Performance	In FY 2024, the Department will begin implementing the American Heart Association's "Get With The Guidelines®" stroke registry, an online, interactive assessment and reporting system. Performance for screening and triaging suspected stroke patients will be tracked and analyzed utilizing the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services "Core Measures".	Completed to date: 0-24% 0% complete. Although we did not procure and implement the AHA Get with the Guidelines Stroke Registry, we made significant progress in stroke care improvement using existing patient care data and local collection methods. Compliance with our stroke bundle of care rose dramatically, reaching 70% in FY24 compared to just 7% in FY22 when we began these efforts. Leveraging the ESO Health Data Exchange and CRISP HIE, we gained valuable insights into our stroke identification rates, successfully identifying 75.5% of 330 confirmed ischemic stroke cases. Notably, we achieved an 80.3% recognition rate for anterior strokes and 63.2% for posterior strokes, which provides a clear focus for continued improvement. These achievements demonstrate our commitment to enhancing stroke care and patient outcomes.
Create a Paramedic School	In FY 2024, the Department will work with a higher education institutional partner to build an accreditation-ready paramedic training program. This program will create a pathway to the middle class for DC residents and a pipeline of qualified, dedicated paramedics to fill the hard-to-fill firefighter-paramedic positions.	Completed to date: 25-49% In the 4th quarter of FY2024, biweekly meetings with UDC-CC and the Innovation Team continued. We began implementing outreach plans created with the Innovation Team. The MOU was refined. TBD

ATTACHMENT Q7

Launch Community Pulse Check Events (Diversity Initiative)	In FY 2024, the Department will hold a series of public conversations to listen to residents and gain feedback about our service and engagements with customers. At least four (4) and up to eight (8) events will take place. The events will be held in safe space locations accessible by public transportation and virtual links will be provided for those who cannot attend in person.	Completed to date: 50-74% 50% completed. N/A
Develop a Continuity of Operations Support Plan	In FY 2024-2025, the Department will develop a Continuity of Operations Plan (COOP) to assure that the capability exists to continue essential functions and services in response to emergencies or disasters. This effort will include identifying and increasing expendable inventories of fleet and facility maintenance supplies of all types as necessary. Plans will also be developed to assure an inventory and rotating stock of materials and equipment for the provision of food, water, "lodging", etc. and to repair critical building systems and identify alternatives when repairs are not possible.	Completed to date: 75-99% This initiative was at 95% completion during Quarter 4 and required minor revisions as a result of position changes. Minor revisions as a result of position changes.
Initiate Whole Blood Transfusions and Track Hospital Outcomes	In FY 2024, the Department will implement low-titer O Whole Blood (LTOWB) transfusions for hemorrhagic shock at trauma scenes in battalions 2, 3, and 4. Hospital data will be utilized and analyzed to assess patient outcomes and recovery progress.	Completed to date: Complete As of Nov 1, 2024, 153 patients in the District have received prehospital whole blood transfusion from DC Fire and EMS. 162 units of whole blood have been transfused (some patients received 2 units). The department is currently transfusing 1 unit of whole blood every 30 hours. The survival rate for patients transfused whole blood by DC Fire and EMS, excluding those found in cardiac arrest, is an astounding 93%. The OMD conducts 100% review of all transfusion cases and collects an extensive panel of patient follow-up data for each case.

#DCFIRESAFE Community Risk Assessment Plan	In FY 2024, the Department will create a community risk assessment plan to build upon the current #DCFireSafe public education campaign. The plan will be developed with assistance of The Lab @ DC at the Office of the City Administrator. Areas within the District that are at high risk will be identified for future public outreach campaigns and a development cycle will be implemented to assist in scheduling future initiatives to address high risk areas.	Completed to date: Complete As of 9/30/24, the Lab has fully developed a model displaying Fire Risk Scores for commercial structures throughout the District. The Lab and DC Fire continue to work to validate and test the model.
Enhance Fire Safety Outreach Material for High-Rise Residents with Disabilities	In FY 2024, the Department will enhance fire safety outreach material for high rise buildings to include additional information for residents with disabilities. Information will be added utilizing the recommendations from the High Rise Task Force initiative and District partners. Additional presentations including the updated information will be scheduled for residents in high rise buildings. In addition, updated videos and social media outreach material will also be expedited.	Completed to date: Complete During FY24 the Department worked with the Office of Disability Rights and the office of Death/Death-Blind/Hard of Hearing to develop and deploy safety messages to ask risk communities. Fire Safety Educators presented to numerous groups and organizations throughout the Fiscal Year and took feedback to refine presentations.
Develop Plan to Expand Wellness and Fitness Programs using NFPA 1500	In FY 2024, the Department will develop a safety, health and wellness plan to incrementally expand our mandatory wellness and fitness components using the requirements of the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) Standard 1582 (Standard on Comprehensive Occupational Medical Program for Fire Departments). The plan will incorporate several enhancements including an annual physical fitness assessment, enhanced cardiac stress tests, and an expansion of cancer screenings.	Completed to date: Complete The new PFC contract went in effect 8/21/24 with a goal to have all new physical components in place by 9/20/24. Unfortunately due to external factors all aspects of the physical were not in compliance by 9/20/24, but were by 9/30/24, thus meeting our strategic initiative goal.

ATTACHMENT Q7

Implement Battalion Level CPR Certifications for Personnel	In FY 2024, the Department will begin certifying all personnel in Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) at the battalion level with EMS supervisors providing the practical skills evaluation. The CPR Office will continue to track the certifications of members and provide support. Implementation will begin with the certification of assigned EMS Supervisors as CPR instructors. This initiative will reduce unit out of service time and provide a more realistic training scenario for personnel.	Completed to date: Complete A purchase order was issued and 26 SMART Mannequins were ordered and received. The Information and technology office identified tablets that will be imaged for the CPR cart and are working to finalize their work for distribution.

REHABILITATION OVERVIEW

In 2024, O2X achieved significant milestones, including successfully returning 27 members to full duty through its injury prevention and rehabilitation program. The team managed care for multiple complex surgeries, including rotator cuff repairs, Achilles tendon ruptures, and quadriceps tendon repairs. The diverse expertise of the two Injury Prevention Specialists underscores their ability to efficiently rehabilitate complex surgical cases while effectively utilizing expeditionary techniques with minimal resources to provide high quality post operative rehabilitation services.

Program Growth

Over the last year DCFEMS Injury Prevention Specialist team has seen immense growth. In 2024, the DC Fire and Emergency Medical Services (DCFEMS) experienced its first full year with 2 Injury Prevention Specialists (IPS) on site. Our injury Prevention Specialists were able to see 200 more members for treatment sessions compared to 2023 (+20% increase year-over-year).

Way Ahead

The O2X team's long-term goal is to conduct a Battalion Traveling Treatment (T2) Day twice per month. Achieving this will enable the team to visit every shift twice and ideally provide services to all 2,000+ DCFEMS members twice a year—a significant accomplishment. Additionally, these Battalion T2 Days have created a new pathway for members to access O2X services in the future.

2024 INITIATIVES COMPLETED

Traveling Treatment Days

The On-Site Injury Prevention Specialists successfully completed 8 Traveling Treatment (T2) Battalion Days, a new initiative launched in August to educate members on O2X OSS capabilities. Since then, 114 members have received services through T2 Days.

Battalion Wellness Days

The Battalion Wellness Days organized by the OSS Team have significantly enhanced the delivery of human performance resources. Each battalion has been visited at least once over the past six months, engaging in activities such as workouts, mobility sessions, nutrition briefs, training consultations, and manual therapy.

Operational Sustainability

In 2024, 134 recruits completed operational suitability following its creation last year. On average, participants improved their time by 1:23 from their first to final attempt, demonstrating the test's ability to highlight progress not only in physical capabilities but also in technical skills as they advance through fire school.

RECRUIT IMPACT

2024 saw another busy, yet successful year with the O2X program at DCFD. This year 4 recruit classes graduated and 130+ successfully transition into probationary firefighters, this is the highest number of recruits to come through the O2X program during a calendar year.

- C. The DCFEMS third party billing service is authorized to apply full and partial exemptions to unpaid account balances following private insurance plan claim processing (with a DCFEMS participating provider agreement) by means of contractual adjustment and/or authorized write-offs using D.C. Resident rates if the DCFEMS participating provider agreement with such a plan requires all beneficiaries be considered equally.

IV. REDUCTIONS AND WAIVERS FOR BILLING

- A. The DCFEMS third party billing service is authorized to apply conditional reductions or waivers to unpaid account balances before or after insurance plan claim processing by means of authorized write-offs following review of patient and/or patient representative requests. Such requests shall be submitted according to the requirements of DCFEMS ambulance billing policy and shall be considered fairly and impartially prior to determination. Conditional reductions or waivers for ambulance fees and charges shall include the following:
- (1) Hardship reductions or waivers. The DCFEMS third party billing service shall reduce or waive ambulance fees and charges such that patient responsibility for a remaining unpaid balance (all levels of service) does not exceed the amounts indicated by the following table (if a hardship request is granted):

TABLE 3A – Patient Responsibility for Unpaid Balances (Hardship)

Hardship Reason	D.C. Residents	Out-of-State Residents

Uninsured	$250.00	$500.00
Permanently Disabled	$0.00	$0.00
End-of-Life Condition/Death	$0.00	$0.00

- (2) Uninsured income qualification. Uninsured patients requesting hardship reductions or waivers shall be considered income qualified if their annual income is less than two hundred fifty percent (250%) of poverty level for an individual, family, or domestic partner arrangement as determined by “Poverty Guidelines for the 48 Contiguous States and the District of Columbia,” published each year by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS). The DCFEMS third party billing service shall determine income qualification using the following table:

TABLE 3B – Income Qualification (Uninsured Patients)

- (3) Insurance review reductions or waivers. The DCFEMS third party billing service shall reduce or waive ambulance fees and charges such that patient responsibility for a remaining unpaid balance (all levels of service) does not exceed the amounts indicated by the following table (if an insurance review request is granted):

TABLE 3C – Patient Responsibility for Unpaid Balances (Insurance)

- (4) Other reductions or waivers. The DCFEMS third party billing service shall reduce or waive ambulance fees and charges such that patient responsibility for a remaining unpaid balance (all levels of service) does not exceed the amounts indicated by the following table (if another reason of necessity is granted or identified):

TABLE 3D – Patient Responsibility for Unpaid Balances (Other)

V. COLLECTION ELIGIBILITY

- A. The DCFEMS third party billing service is authorized to classify patient accounts with unpaid balances (after the insurance claim processing and patient billing cycle is complete) as delinquent, between 180 and 360 days after the date a patient received ambulance transport services. Delinquent patient accounts eligible for collection transfer are as follows:
- (1) Any patient account assessed at authorized fee rates (described by Table 1A, above) when the identity, residential address, or insurance coverage information for a patient could not be verified for billing, and when less than full payment was received, and the remaining unpaid balance exceeds two dollars ($2.00).

- (2) Any patient account billed at authorized patient responsibility rates (described by Tables 2A and 2B, above), and when less than full payment was received, and the remaining unpaid balance exceeds two dollars ($2.00).
- (3) Any patient account billed at authorized patient responsibility rates (described by Tables 3A and 3C, above), and when less than full payment was received, and the remaining unpaid balance exceeds two dollars ($2.00).
- (4) Any patient account not qualified for full or partial exemption, and not qualified for reduction or waiver, and when less than full payment was received, and the remaining unpaid balance exceeds two dollars ($2.00).

Subject: NFPA II Fireboat, Doc607751 – Technical Proposal

Dear Mr. Sherman Squire,

Crowley Engineering Services, Inc. (CES), formally Jensen Maritime, is a full service, Marine Engineering firm with Naval Architecture and Construction Management services. For 60 years, CES has been a leader in the design, construction, refurbishment, conversion, repair, and life extension of workboats. We have been very successful in developing, managing, and completing many fireboats, patrol boats and fire-fighting tug projects for both public and private clients. CES is a leader in tug design having designed over 75 vessels comprising thirty classes for more than a two dozen operators in the last decade.

CES's heritage in the design of workboats has developed a staff of engineers, who pay special attention to constructability, maintainability and reparability which lead to durability.

The CES staff includes 60 professionals, including our Naval Architects, Mechanical Engineers, Marine designers, Production Engineers, Project Managers and Construction Managers. This team completes more than 200 projects each year on average.

CES engineers pay careful attention to our client's budget and design requirements. We keep our designs simple while incorporating advanced technology and paying close attention to engineering basics and construction details.

CES is a subsidiary of Crowley Maritime Corporation (Crowley). Crowley is an American privately-owned and operated marine solutions, transportation and logistics company providing services in domestic and international markets. Crowley is vertically integrated offering vessel design, construction management, ship operations management, shipping and transportation, logistics, wind energy service, and emergency response.

The mission of CES is to partner with our clients to deliver innovative, comprehensive and high-value engineering solutions, vessel designs and ultimately the constructed vessel. This unique mixture of professionals allows us to design vessels that meet the technical requirements of the owners while maintaining a design that are buildable by the shipyards at a competitive price.

The RFP documents show a wide variety of possible vessel power and arrangements for considerations. Our team is continually working with our customers on new emerging technologies and evaluating the best solution for the vessel operations.

CES is pleased to offer this technical proposal for Naval Architectural, Marine Engineering and Construction Management services for the design of a fireboat in accordance with the District of Columbia Fire and EMS Department's requirements.

We look forward to working with you and the Department on this very exciting project.

Best regards,

TECHNICAL DESIGN APPROACH

Scope of Work Tasks

CES is pleased to offer this technical proposal for Naval Architectural and Marine Engineering services for the design of a fireboat, RFP development and shipyard evaluations in accordance with the DCFEMS requirements.

Fireboat design offers unique challenges that are unlike other projects. One of the major challenges, as with other large scale public works projects, is that fireboats have a large number of stakeholders. Stakeholders usually include the City, members of the public who will be saved or just visit on a school trip, the Fire Department leadership, budget office, maintenance department, medics, fire fighters and others.

Fireboats are complex. Traditionally, fireboats were multi-purpose vessels that performed marine firefighting, search and rescue, provided emergency medical services and showed the flag in parades. Modern fireboats take “multi-purpose” to an extreme by providing, in addition to the traditional tasks, on-scene command, port security patrol, towing/tug service, diving support, pollution & hazardous material response, maintenance of aids to navigation, offshore rescue & salvage, CBRNE crew protection for terrorism or HazMat response, service as a pumping station to support shore side operations, and more duties are sure to be coming.

Balancing the needs of the numerous stakeholders with the demands of the multiple missions and managing consensus among these equally vital functions can be a challenge. Often times weight, speed and costs associated with these disparate groups and functions are in conflict; CES been very successful in harmonizing them in the conceptual design process. The best way to approach this is to identify all the stakeholders and mission requirements early and work toward consensus from the beginning.

Fireboats are expensive to build and to maintain. Most fireboats are kept in service for fifty years or more and are often maintained by the operators themselves. CES works with vessel owners and shipyards at every phase of the fleet planning, design, construction, maintenance, and life extension process. Most of our clients are repeat customers who keep coming back so, over the years, we’ve learned and developed methods to reduce maintenance expenses and extend vessel longevity.

CES’s experience will help the Fire Department meet these challenges and design the boat that is customized for your operation.

As with most fireboat projects, there is a process of determining the desired functionality of the fireboat and the cost to build and operate such vessel. As called out in the design specifications, we propose a design plan that will offer the Fire Department complete design control during the beginning of the project that allows maximum flexibility during the concept phase to explore different options and vessel features. As the design matures and decisions are made on the final vessel design requirements and vessel functionality, we then shift control to CES to maximize design efficiency and minimize design costs.

The Ship Design Process

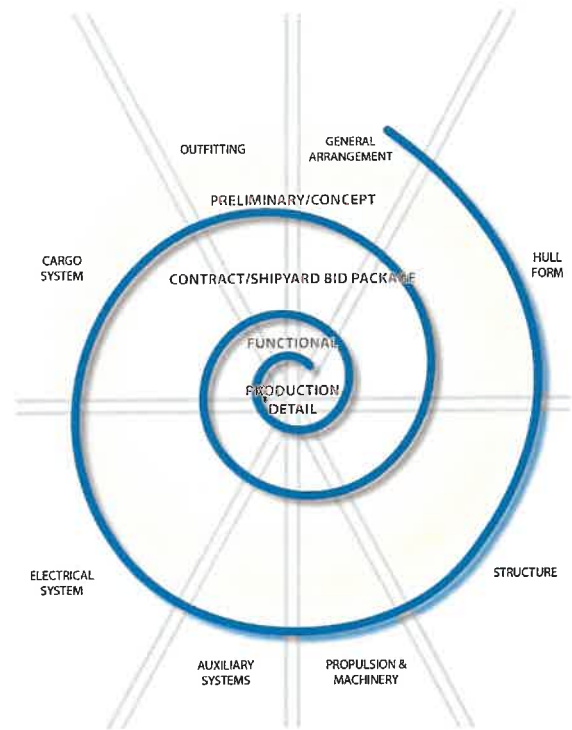

The ship design process is best described as a spiral process in which each stage of development of the design becomes a prototype model for the next stage. The design is revised and refined until it is optimized and detailed for final construction. Ship design is generally divided into four stages:

- Concept Design with options and feasibility studies (R&D)
- Contract Design
- Functional Design
- Detail Design (for Construction)

Sometimes decisions made at one level of design have serious ramifications for performance, constructability, ease of maintenance or longevity of the vessel. CES has experience working at every stage of the design spiral which gives our naval architects and marine engineers insight to make good decisions at early stages of the design spiral that will allow optimization at later stages.

Economic factors are of primary importance in ship design. An owner requires a ship that will provide the best performance for the lowest capital and operating costs throughout the life of the vessel. Many operating costs can be reduced by thoughtful design in the early stages of the design. For example, bulb flats may have a higher initial cost than angle bars; however, if the vessel is designed using bulb flats or flanged plate instead of tees or angle bars, the shapes are easier to paint and, have fewer sharp edges so the paint stays on better reducing maintenance costs.

CES's heritage in the design of workboats has built up a team of engineers who pay special attention to constructability, durability, maintainability, comfort, and life cycle cost effectiveness. Workboat owners tend to have experience with both operations and management of their vessels. They have specific ideas about the design of their vessel and are integral members of the design team.

CES employs a “system” approach to design. This means that the entire vessel is understood as a system and each element of that system is optimized to work with every other element. Access and flow through the vessel for vessel crew, additional fire fighters, command staff, and maintenance personnel are also examined and optimized.

Collectively CES’s engineers and drafters have dozens of years of experience working in shipyards so we know the kinds of things (both features of the design and elements in the specification and/or contract) that can increase shipyard costs but may not add value to the final product. For example, we strive to make our contract drawings descriptive but not restrictive. By defining the vessel clearly, shipyard incur less risk and are able to bid more accurately, thus reducing contingencies and lowering construction costs.

With their shipyard experience, CES engineers are conversant in both modular and conventional shipyard construction methods. We take both methods into consideration when creating contract designs so as not to exclude any shipyards from the bidding process based on their construction methods. We also strive to understand the standard details of each shipyard which can also reduce construction costs.

CES drawings are often developed to a level of detail that is higher than other design firms. Rather than simply describing an element in the specification, important details are described with a drawing too. This permits the client to provide the builder with clearer definition of important items and reduces risk for shipyards.

CES has several clients who build their own vessels and are very aware of maintenance and accessibility issue from the start of construction through the life of the vessel. We pay particular attention to working spaces for construction. By creating a 3D model in ShipConstructor^R, we can layout the vessel to ensure adequate space for welding, painting, and finally vessel operations and we pay particular attention to the placement of padeyes and soft patches to make equipment removal easier for maintenance.

As part of Crowley, CES has access to Crowley operators who we use as a sounding board for ways to improve our designs to increase efficiency, reduce lost time due to injury, and ease of maintenance.

CES continually discusses new standards regarding green technologies with both regulators and vendors to ensure that our designs are compliant to not only today’s standards, but also forthcoming requirements that may influence the vessel.

CES will follow the department’s definitions of the design phases as called out in the design RFP. The following is to clarify how our process follows the Departments requirements with only a slight change in the name of each phase.

- | CES Standard Definition | DCFEMS Definition |
|----------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| Concept Design | Initial Concept Design |
| Concept Design Studies | Trade-off & Cost-benefit studies |
| Contract Design | Final Design |
| Functional Design | Final Design for RFP to yards |
| Detail Design (for Construction) | Production Design |

Phase I – Initial Concept Design Phase

The goal of this first phase is to develop the features of the design that meet the needs of all the stakeholders.

Between 60-90 days following the kick-off meeting, CES will lead an Initial Concept Design Phase meeting which vessel capabilities, features, and design concepts shall be covered. Prior to this meeting CES will produce, in conjunction with the Department, a document that outlines the draft performance capabilities and requirements. This document will include threshold and objective requirements for the vessel.

The Initial Concept Design Phase will begin with the document described above as guidance to develop the design. This Initial Concept Design will include general arrangements, weight estimates, propulsion and powering estimates, and system schematic for primary mission system. The design will be advances sufficiently to perform the trade-off studies outlined in the Design RFP.

The trade-off and cost-benefit studies will be conducted upon approval of the Initial Concept Design. The studies will follow the requirements outlined in the design RFP and include a ROM construction cost estimate for each main machinery configurations. A detailed summary report will be developed with recommendation to assist the Department in determining the final performance and engineering design options to be incorporated into the vessel design. CES will develop a Final Concept Design with these features designed into the vessel.

A Concept Design Review meeting shall be held wherein CES will provide all Final Concept Design drawings, 3D renderings, specifications, and other required documentation for review by the Department. Upon approval of the DCFEMS, the Concept Design shall constitute the configuration of the vessel to be procured and will form the bases of the Final Design.

Phase II – Final Design Phase

Final Design phase will include all technical documentation necessary for approval of the USCG and ABS as well as the required information for obtaining fixed price quotes from shipyards, including the vessel build specifications. The Final drawings and documentation will be in sufficient detail to communicate to the shipyard the specific design requirements without requiring further design development. The shipyard will take responsibility to develop their internal Detail Design for construction of the vessel.

In addition to the regulatory requirements, this phase will also incorporate the additional requirements of the Design RFP, including the following:

- Recommend number and size of PFD
- AC power supply evaluation at DCFEMS pier to ensure vessel design power compatibility
- Scale model testing:
 - Verify speed-power relationship
 - Verify wake-wash and maneuverability
- Full-size mockup of pilothouse configurations to ensure ergonomic and operational requirements are met

- Inboard and outboard profile, lines and offsets, general arrangement, deck arrangements, internal compartment arrangements, and deckhouse top arrangements, with dimensions, demonstrating pilothouse visibility, compliance with Rules of the Road requirements for navigational lights, and arrangement of equipment and outfit.
- Structural configuration, arrangement of propulsion units, gears, propulsions, hydraulic pumps, generators, tanks, combustion air ducting, firemain, and exhaust piping runs, demonstrating ability to access and remove components for maintenance and repair.
- Design of the pilothouse control consoles, including arrangement of all electronics equipment
- Structural drawings, to include detailed structural drawings, piping schematics, lofted structural packages, and A&D for systems
- System diagrams for: bilge system; cooling and circulating water system; Heating Ventilation and Air Conditioning (HVAC) system (including engine room ventilation system); fuel system; potable water system; grey water and sewage system; ballast system; hydraulic system; compressed air system; propulsion engine, and generator exhaust systems; electrical distribution system to include breaker list and fuse sizes, the location of those breakers and fuses and a list of the equipment they serve
- Docking plan (blocking and hoisting) Machinery removal plans
- CES will perform calculations to assure the following:
 - The hull design, propulsion engine selections, and propeller selection will allow a speed meeting the requirements as defined at the initial concept design completion
 - Fuel capacity is adequate to satisfy the requirements of the design RFP
 - Engine room ventilation is adequate for operation of the propulsion engines, fire pump engines, and generators under the conditions described in these specifications
 - Cooling water systems are adequate for continuous duty operations of the propulsion engines, fire pump engines, and generators under the conditions required by these specifications
 - Generator capacity is sufficient to adequately power all required equipment during the most demanding operational and environmental conditions required by the specifications, through the provision of a detailed electrical load analysis.
 - The stability of the vessel is in compliance with the requirements of Section 15 of these specifications.
 - Vessel maximum persons onboard should be provided. Report should outline passenger capacity by compartment and include on-deck capacity for emergency evacuation capacity.
- The CES final design shall eliminate situations in which technical decisions would be in the hands of shipyard purchasing agents.

Phase III – Shipyard RFP Solicitation Package

Upon approval of the Final Design Phase, CES will prepare the Request for Proposal (RFP) solicitation package for the Department to issue to qualified shipyards. CES has an extremely experienced Construction Management team that is responsible for the entire process of procuring a vessel from US based shipyards. This process starts with the development of the RFP documents including technical, legal, and risk documentation. Our CM team works with the parties involved to negotiate the contract terms, pricing, and vessel delivery.

The CES team will work with the Department to evaluate the shipyard proposals. The evaluation criteria will include, but not be limited to the following:

- Meris of proposed production design & build strategy
- Shipyard capabilities and experience
- Specification compliance

CES has worked with most of the US Commercial shipyards over the past 60 years and is currently working with over 15 US shipyards with vessel designs, RFP support and construction management. CES will assist the Department with identifying suitable potential shipyard candidates to solicit for the vessel construction. We will also serve as the technical adviser to the technical evaluation panel during review and rating of the technical responses.

CES understands the RFP for vessel construction management and looks forward to developing a proposal for this effort.

Our current proposal includes the development of two additional options as follows:

- Development of a planned maintenance system (PMS) for the John H. Glenn Jr. to ensure continuity with PMS development for the replacement vessel. A reliability-centered maintenance program defines maintenance tasks and intervals to be performed by the crew and recommended spares/consumables
- Creation or user rights of Wartsila virtual simulation software. Compatibility with the hardware and facilities of the Harry Lundeberg School of Seamanship located in Piney Point, MD is required. This will have multiple sub-options:
 - Virtual environment (Potomac river from Woodrow Wilson bridge north)
 - Virtual vessel – design and performance specifications to match final vessel design for bridge and navigation simulation
 - Virtual engineering systems simulation
 - Virtual emergency fire/sar simulation

Schedule and Time Frame

CES proposes the following general schedule:

- Phase I – Initial Concept Design (5 months)
- Phase II – Final Design (6 - 8 months)
- Phase III – RFP Package (3 - 4 months)

CES plans projects using critical path analysis with Microsoft[®] Project to support planning efforts and help the PM keep the project on schedule. When CES requests information or decisions from the Department, the PM will provide delivery dates required to keep the project on schedule.

Internal Procedures and Quality Assurance

CES's mission is to find effective engineering solutions that create successes for our clients. To that end, we use the following techniques to ensure technical accuracy, product quality, control costs and ensure customer satisfaction:

All CES engineering is done under the direct supervision of a registered professional engineer assigned at the outset of a task or subtask. The ultimate quality assurance guarantee is the expertise of our licensed professional engineers (PE). Each report, specification document, and plan is stamped by the responsible PE in charge of its development. Preliminary documents are stamped but remain unsigned. All final documents are both stamped and signed.

CES assigns personnel for design, review, and supervision based upon their qualifications for a specific task.

All CES engineering work undergoes internal peer review before issuance to the customer. This process ensures technical accuracy and completeness of all deliverables. Each deliverable undergoes this review based upon a written procedure, acceptance criteria and a checklist developed by the department manager.

CES personnel confirm the accuracy of customer's orally provided information and requests by providing a written summary. This keeps tasks on the desired development path and documents task development history.

CES carefully tracks progress of all ongoing tasks, and provides customer progress reports. CES observes all customer contract guidance on communications and reporting.

CES provides rapid responses to customer inquiries. Work in progress may be viewed at any time at the client's request.

CES works to identify any possible task scope changes, evaluate their efficacy, and determine a desired course of action with the client.

CES design practices are in accordance with all applicable regulatory requirements and sound commercial marine practice.

CES is committed to providing quality designs for a reasonable cost. During the design process, we consider construction costs, maintenance costs, and ease of construction. CES creates 3D models during the design phase and regularly visits vessels during the construction phase to perform design validation and interference checks. All of this hands-on experience allows us to anticipate and minimize construction difficulties, and minimize change order costs while meeting project requirements.

CES is active in repair and upgrade work as well as new designs. This gives us experience working in the field and an understanding of access and constructability problems. During the design process, CES considers how shipyard workers will build the product, and ensures that there is adequate access for welding, tightening bolts and painting.

Reliability is another primary goal of CES design work. Many of our clients are commercial fishermen, commercial towboat operators or emergency vessel operators. These vessels work 24 hours a day, seven day a week in the harshest sea conditions with limited downtime for maintenance and repairs.

CES has a reputation for staying within an owner's stated project scope. Throughout project development we review project scope to ensure that design objectives are met without over-designing or over-engineering. This process eliminates most cost creep usually associated with design and construction of complex projects. Most of our customers are repeat customers, demonstrating our ability to provide quality designs that meet owner's objectives at a reasonable cost.

CES engineers pay careful attention to our client's budget and design requirements. We keep our designs simple while incorporating advanced technology and paying close attention to engineering basics and details. We have developed very successful fireboats, and patrol boats and tugs with fire-fighting capabilities for both public and private clients. CES is a leader in tug design having designed over 75 vessels in the last decade including the thirty classes of workboats ranging in size from 38' to 156'. Our latest 82' ship assist tug currently under construction is designed to be a "Zero Emission" tug with autonomous capabilities.

CES is currently providing engineering and construction management services to several customers. The vessel currently under construction that CES is involved with include, a self-propelled split hopper dredge, a factory fishing trawler, an LNG bunker barges and several tugs. CES has been responsible for the complete design to build process for many of these projects. With our diverse experience, we are well suited to provide any Naval Architectural, Marine Engineering, RFP Development and Construction Management required under this contract. CES has the proven track record our customers have come to depend on to develop a custom designed vessel and have it successfully built.

The CES staff proposed to design the new vessel have many years working on similar workboats. The engineering team for the project will flex and grow as the project progresses to the final design. During this process we will utilize the expertise needed to advance the vessel design to the next phase. We have included the CES resumes and organizational chart to this proposal for review. The following outlines our standard practice to develop a vessel design and solicit a shipyard price.

Phase I – Initial Concept Design Phase

During the concept design phase, our Project Manager will work with our Chief Naval Architect to assemble our team of Marine Engineering Specialists for this project. This team will address the design requirements and studies during this phase with communication done by our PM through a combination of meetings and by email.

Phase II – Final Design Phase

During the final design phase, the needs of the project will increase and the depth our engineering team will be engaged to accomplish the required task. Our PM will remain the same with additional engineering personal added to the project where appropriate. Subcontractors, vendors, and specialist will be added to the team as needed to perform the work described in the RFP and this proposal. Our final design for review will be presented by our project PM with technical representation from our various engineering disciplines.

Phase III – Shipyard RFP Solicitation

During this phase, the CES PM will work closely with our leaders from the construction management group to develop the RFP documentation. The CES team will assist with the shipyard proposal evaluations, including support from the CES technical team for questions asked during the shipyard solicitation process.

PAST PERFORMANCE

Similar Projects

The following project descriptions illustrate CES's past performance on jobs similar to the expected scope of tasks to be issued under this contract. In the past 10 years, CES has designed one fireboat, five ABS-classed FFV1 firefighting (FI-FI) tugs in excess of 50 feet in length with a pumping capacity greater than 10,000 gallons per minute and we have designed and built three Ice Class D0 Articulating Tug and Barge.

CES provided design and/or construction oversight services on the following:

SAN FRANCISCO FIRE DEPARTMENT – FIREBOAT 3

This design was developed for the construction of one (1) 88' Super Pumper NFPA Type II Fireboat for the San Francisco Fire Department. The vessel operates in San Francisco Bay, San Pablo Bay and the Pacific Ocean within five miles of shore and the adjoining inland waterways. The vessel is designed primarily for Pumping, Firefighting, Rescue, EMS and Patrol. The vessel has CBRNE detection capabilities; crew protection is provided by personal SCBAs and local air supply ports. The vessel is designed in accordance with NFPA 1925 Standard on Marine Fire-Fighting Vessels and American Bureau of Shipping Rules for Building and Classing Steel Vessels under 90 Meters (295 ft) in length but will not be classed. Our team performed the concept study, final design, vessel specifications, shipyard RFP, construction management and shipyard production drawings.

SEATTLE FIRE DEPARTMENT - FIREBOAT LESCHI

Designed as a multi-mission response platform, Seattle Fire Department's Fireboat LESCHI has a separate command and control center, medical treatment room, spill containment boom, a rescue RIB and an aluminum work skiff stowed on the stern ramp for quick launching and ease of recovery. A crane on the aft deck is fitted with cameras and a fire nozzle that can reach the deck of high freeboard container ship to view hot spots and direct water and foam as necessary. LESCHI was the first civilian vessel to be fitted with a military grade CBRNE (Chemical Biological Radiation Nuclear Environment) air filtration system to protect the crew from airborne toxins. An airlock amidships allows crew to exit and enter the cabin and treatment room while protecting the interior spaces from contamination. The crew is free to operate the vessel without being tethered to breathing apparatus that may hinder movement in an emergency. CES developed the design drawings, specifications, assisted with proposal evaluations and provided construction management. Powered by a pair of diesel engines, the vessel can reach speeds in excess of 14 knots. The twin diesel pump engines power four fire pumps that pump 24,000 gpm of water through eight deck monitors [1x7,000 gpm, 2x5,500 gpm, 2x3,000 gpm, 3x1,500 tpm] or two under wharf monitors (2x1,800 gpm). Water can be supplied ashore through three outlet manifolds each fitted with four 4" and two 2-1/2" hose connections. The vessel also carries 6,000 gallons of foam concentrate that can be applied through most monitors and manifolds.

ESCORT TUG - FFV1

The 112-foot by 44-foot tug has a 22-foot draft, was built for escort, ocean towing and ship assist, and has firefighting capabilities if needed. The tug features a raised pilot house and a squared forward end. The large, flat bow allows the tug to come up flat against the transom of ocean-going ships in the Columbia River. The tug is equipped with two wire winches forward, and six aft, for hard wiring to the stern of large ships for escort. It has an enhanced fuel capacity of 108,000 gallons for offshore and rescue tows and accommodations for up to 10 crewmembers. She is outfitted with a pair of GE 12V250 U.S. EPA Tier IV, medium-speed diesel main engines; a pair of Rolls Royce 305, four-bladed z-Drives; a pair of EPA Tier III, John Deere 6090A generators; and one Caterpillar C32 fire pump power plant. The engines are rated at 4,218 HP each, and will provide enough power to develop an estimated 230,000 pounds of bollard pull. Her deck machinery consists of the previously listed eight deck winches, all of which are Wintech 120-ton (SWL) winches; one Rapp HA-149H-250 escort winch; and a Rapp double drum AHTW-75H-165 tow winch. The fire pump and the two fire monitors are provided by Fire Fighting Systems U.S. agent, Inmar Systems. The firefighting system has the capability to pump more than 12,000 gallons per minute to fight marine and near shore fires. The CES team was involved in the concept design, final design, shipyard and shipyard production engineering.

OCEAN CLASS LINE HAUL TUGS (4) - FFV1

The ocean-class vessels are twin screw with controllable pitch propellers (CPP), in nozzles with independent high lift rudders. Their hulls are welded steel construction and each is outfitted for long range ocean towing, dynamic positioning, firefighting and general purpose vessel requirements. The vessels are transverse framed with transverse and longitudinal bulkheads and is designed with all tanks containing oil and oil traces inboard of the side shell to create a double hull.

Propulsion is provided by two (2) Caterpillar C-280-12 diesel engines, designed to operate on Ultra Low Sulfur Diesel fuel and each is rated at 5440 BHP @ 1000 RPM driving the CPP Propellers through Reintjes LAF 5666 reduction gears. The vessels ABS class include FFV1 firefighting with 11,000 gpm pumping capacity. Electric power is provided by one (1) 340 kW Caterpillar C-18 auxiliary generator (Harbor Generator), two (2) 1475 KVA, for the DP1 and 1.5 for the DP2 version, shaft generators and one (1) 125 kW Caterpillar C-6.6 emergency generator system. The CES team was involved in the concept design, final design, shipyard RFP processes, shipyard production engineering and construction management.

ARTICULATED TUG & BARGE – ICE CLASSED

ATBs consist of a hydrodynamically efficient tank barge coupled to a high-horsepower tug in a notch at the stern of the barge. The coupling is a "hinge" which consists of a pair of port and starboard rams that engage with rows of wave teeth in sides of the notch. The connection can be made for a wide variety of drafts on either vessel. The coupling allows the tug and barge to pitch independently while maintaining a solid connection and excellent maneuverability. The tug has Azimuthing drives to enhance maneuverability, and an Intercon C-series coupling system with a first-of-its-kind lightering helmet. The ATB features a patent-pending closed loop, freshwater ballast system whereby the tug's ballast will be transferred to-and-from a retention tank on the barge to account for fuel burn. The design has been approved by the USCG and will eliminate the need to discharge tug ballast water into the sea. CES designed this ATB to meet Ice Class and Polar Code requirements, which includes increased structural framing and shell plating and extended zero discharge endurance. The double-hulled design also features a barge form factor to achieve high-cargo capacity on minimal draft. The CES team was involved in the concept design, final design, shipyard RFP processes, shipyard production engineering and construction management.

Crowley’s newest 55,000-barrel capacity Articulated Tug and Barge (ATB) Aurora/Qamun was specifically designed to meet Ice Class and Polar Code requirements in order to safely and effectively operate in Western Alaska year-round. The vessel can operate in winter ice conditions and temperatures as low as -20 degrees Fahrenheit. It has a range of 4,300 miles and can access most all locations in the state of Alaska. The CES team was involved in the concept design, final design, shipyard RFP processes, shipyard production engineering and construction management.
